MONTPELIER

The locker room at the Y. M. C. A. is being cleaned and put in shape for the coming season.

The Quincy Granite Co., conveyed part of their granite shed on the west side of Barre street yesterday to J. J. Farns & Co., granite manufacturers for a consideration of $1.

Bates met Driscoll in the Y. M. C. A. tennis tournament yesterday afternoon and Driscoll took the match by scores of 6-0 and 6-1. This contest has eliminated Bates, together with Webb, Smith and Hoadley.

A suspicious noise was heard last night about 12 o'clock back of the Lawrence block which sounded like an explosion. Officer P. J. Connelly investigated with several others that were on the street but everything seemed to be in good shape. A clerk of E. W. Bailey was away from the building everything all right there. The sound of the explosion was heard by a number of people and it is a mystery what it was.

Carol C. Whitcomb of Montpelier, and Miss Amelia Derosa, of Richford, were united in marriage at All Saints church in Richford on Wednesday morning. William Corbin, of this city, attended Mr. Whitcomb and the bride was attended by Miss Whitcomb. A wedding breakfast was served and Mr. and Mrs. Whitcomb left for Montpelier on a wedding trip. They will reside in a house where Mr. Whitcomb is employed by the Montpelier and Wells River railroad.

Redfield Phillips was taking a trial spin in Arthur Johnson's new Ford automobile yesterday afternoon when the wind lifted his hat off. He grained for the hat and the steering wheel spun around, sending the auto against a telephone pole at the corner of Park and Loomis streets. Mr. Phillips was thrown to the ground but was not injured. The damage to the machine was about $350, the body being split, one mud-guard broken, steering-gear disabled and the front springs ripped from their places.

MARSHFIELD

Miss Ada Gray, who went to Vergennes two weeks ago, when she was met assistant master of the girls department of the state industrial school, writes that the work is hard, yet she is enjoying her position very much.

The friends of S. H. Packer, offer congratulations, inasmuch as Mr. Packer secured the first premium for matched pair of gentlemen's drivers at St. Johnsbury last week. Mr. Packer's horses are now brothers, four and five years old, evenly matched, and are altogether a dandy team, raised and broken by him. Mr. Packer has received several flattering offers for the team.

Fast and Slow.

The Father—I learn with sorrow, my son, that you are getting to be what they term quite fast. The Son—You shouldn't believe all you hear, dad. I'll introduce you to a man who will tell you another story. The Father—And who is he? The Son—My tailor. He says I'm the slowest chap he's got on his books.

Physicians Are Naturally Prejudiced against proprietary or advertised medicines, as the sale of these medicines decreases their incomes.

However this may be, the general public is benefited by the use of such standard medicines as Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, with its wonderful record of thousands of cures among suffering women. We are very glad to say, however, that there are hundreds of thousands of honest physicians in the United States who do not hesitate to recommend such medicines.

Can't look well, eat well or feel well with impure blood feeding your body. Keep the blood pure with Burdock Blood Bitters. Eat simply, take exercise. Keep clean and you will have long life.

Hives, eczema, itch or salt rheum sets you crazy. Can't bear the touch of your clothing. Don't's Ointment cures the most obstinate cases. Why suffer? All druggists sell it.

Don't use harsh physics. The reaction weakens the bowels, leads to chronic constipation. Get Doan's Backache Kidney Pills. Operate easily, tone the stomach, cure constipation.

AMUSEMENT NOTES

"Graustark" at the Barre Opera House This Evening.

"Graustark" is entitled to rank high among the romantic dramas of the present day stage. It is replete with strong human interest, is full of life and spirit, and the comedy element is much and enjoyably in evidence. The hero of the play, "Graustark," where the attractive young lady is a reigning princess. The princess is about to marry a man for whom she has a natural antipathy, in order to free her country from a burdensome and oppressive debt. The rich American, however, after having saved the life of the young ruler, comes to the rescue and saves the nation from bankruptcy and insolvency by paying the debt. As a matter of course the accommodating American is enabled to induce the princess to banish all ancestral prejudice and to become his wife.

The company presenting this romantic play has been engaged by Messrs. Baker and Castle from the ranks of the very best people in the profession, and the scenery and equipment have been acknowledged by press and public to be the best ever seen in the theatres of the entire season. At the opera house to-night.

He Finally Went.

It was a dangerous task—and one that no photographer had ever undertaken, but that is just the reason why this particular photographer went there. By "there" is meant the 12-inch turret of a Dreadnought when the big guns are very, very busy. In a sense, it was fascinating; but in a larger sense the danger of it all discounted the fascination altogether. A great gun has a potency of evil. However serene and majestic it looks when silent, it inspires awe and fear when it hurls its ponderous shells for miles and miles. The photographer knew that and felt it, too. He couldn't forget that if a delicate little spring in the mechanism broke; or if a trunnion became rusted; or if the rifle barrel refused to accommodate the shell; or if a weak powder-bag broke and scattered a grain or two of powder; or if there is a "flare back," a "miss fire," or "hang fire," he nor anyone else would live to tell the tale in pictures or any other way. So he hesitated long before the love of adventure overcame his timidity. Then he started for the turret with all the courage he could command—and his indispensable camera. He focused the latter on the huge 130-ton gun and the men behind the gun. Then he waited developments. They came soon enough. There was a terse command, "silence," then an awful suspense, followed by another terse command, "fire." Just what happened then will be shown by Lyman H. Howe at the opera house on Monday evening, Sept. 27, together with many other features that are equally interesting. The new program includes a tour through the beautiful Gorge Du Var, France, picturesque Algeria, the ice palace and winter carnival in Montreal, through the Rockies in midwinter, Canadian winter sports, life in the snow-bound lumber camps, dissolving portraits of English statesmen, the glories of sunset and moonlight and numerous others.

BREAKFAST FRUIT.

The Best Said to Be Oranges, Grapes and Fresh Olives.

Of all breakfast fruits the orange is deservedly the most popular. It is a food that is distinctly health giving. Orange juice aids greatly in reducing the amount of putrefaction found in the intestines of nearly all persons who are submitted to clinical laboratory tests.

Grapes are another fruit that should always be eaten freely when obtainable. Apples are preferably eaten before retiring, and are about twice as good as one. The apple habit, persisted in, often works rather surprising results with persons who are naturally listless. Lemons can hardly be eaten as a fruit, but lemonade is a valuable beverage. When used as a laxative fresh figs should form the dessert. When not obtainable the dried figs form a good substitute.

Of the value of bananas there seems some reasonable doubt. Many persons complain that they find them indigestible. They are quite likely to reach this conclusion if the banana be eaten frequently as the needless complement of an already hearty meal. On the other hand, there can be no doubt that the growing popularity of the fresh olive is fully deserved. It surely ranks with the orange and the grape and is, of course, much ahead of either in cases of sluggish intestines or constitutional thinness.—H. Irving Hancock to Good Housekeeping.

TOO COMPLICATED.

The Reason We Say "You" Instead of Using "Thou."

The reason commonly given for the substitution of the second person plural for the second person singular, "you" instead of "thou"—that it originated as a form of courtesy—may explain its origin, but its universal adoption is due to a deeper reason—namely, that the second person singular of the verb is a complicated and difficult form, while the second person plural is simple to the last degree.

With every principal verb in the language and with every auxiliary except "must" the pronoun "thou" requires a special change in the form of the verb, which is often the only break in an otherwise uniform series. Thus in the present tense of every verb, with the single exception of the verb "be," the pronoun "you" employs the unchanged root form of the verb, as "you love, have, can do, shall, wilt," etc., while "thou" requires a change of form, as "thou lovest, hast, canst, dost, shalt, wilt," etc.

In every such choice the unchanged root form has always the right of way. Thus "you" has become everywhere current in the busy activities of life, while "thou" is carefully laid up in the museum of antiquity or the shrine of religion.—James C. Fernald in Harper's Magazine.

His Favorite Song.

There is a young optician in Denver who sings very well, says the Post of that city. The other night he was making a call on a couple of sisters up on Corona street when he was asked to sing.

"What shall it be?" he asked as he went to the piano.

"Your favorite song," said one of the girls.

"All right," he replied, and then the optician sat down and sang "The Night Hath a Thousand Eyes."

Anty Drudge on True Economy.

Mrs. Nuwed—"I'm economizing by doing my own washing. By boiling the clothes a long time I can get the dirt out without much hard rubbing."

Anty Drudge—"Economizing shucks! You're burning up money in fuel and wearing out your clothes faster when you boil them. Use Fels-Naptha in cool or lukewarm water without boiling. You'll save fuel, save your clothes and you won't have any hard rubbing. That's true economy."

How much are the clothes worth that go into your weekly wash?

Many dollars at least.

Isn't it worth while to take good care of those clothes, to make them wear as long as possible?

Then, why soften them by boiling and hardrub them into holes on the washboard?

The Fels-Naptha way of washing will save your clothes.

Fels-Naptha will cleanse them thoroughly in cool or lukewarm water without boiling or hard rubbing.

The clothes will be sweeter, cleaner and whiter than you can get them any other way. And they'll wear twice as long.

Remember,—whether winter or summer, no boiling, no hot water, no hard rubbing.

Time saved, fuel saved, work easier, less bother.

Follow simple directions on the red and green wrapper.

ADVERTISE IN THE DAILY TIMES

TOO HIGH!

Some people have the idea that the cost of Electric Light is too high—that it is expensive.

Look at it this way—If it is safer, cooler, cleaner and more cheerful and convenient than any other illuminant, isn't it worth more to you?

We can easily show you that our rates are fair as compared with other cities and lower than in many. And our service is constant and sure. The lights always burn.
